This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

CHARLEMAGNE TOWER.

CHARLEMAGNE TOWER was the seventh in descent from John Tower, the son of Robert Tower, of Hingham, in Norfolk, England, and of his wife, Margaret Ibrook, who came to America with a colony led by Rev. Peter Hobart, from old Hingham, and settled in Massachusetts at what is now Hingham, in the year 1637. He was born on the 18th of April, 1809, in the Township of Paris (so called from Isaac Paris, a man noted for his public benefactions after the American Revolution), in Oneida County, New York, some twelve miles south of Utica. His father, Reuben Tower, a well-known and public-spirited man, born at Rutland, Worcester County, Massachusetts, on the 15th day of February, 1787, and married in the Township of Paris on the 15th day of February, 1808, was active in the development of the public improvements of his time, in the State of New York, notably the Chenango Canal, and was also a member of the Legislature of New York in 1828. He died at the age of forty-five, on the 14th of March, 1832, in St. Augustine, Florida, where he had gone for his health. His mother, Deborah Taylor (Pearce) Tower, was born at Little Compton, in Rhode Island, on the 6th day of July, 1785.

Mr. Tower's education was begun in his native place, and carried on subsequently at the Oxford Academy, in Chenango County, and at the Clinton Academy, and the Utica Academy, in Oneida County, New York. It is worthy of note that he taught school in the common schools of the townships of Paris and Marshall, in Oneida County, for two consecutive years, when he was but fourteen and fifteen years of age; and in 1825 he was assistant teacher in the Utica Academy. He was also shortly after engaged in business as a clerk with Messrs. Hart & Gridley, merchants, in Utica. In 1826 his father took him to Cambridge, Massachusetts, and placed him under the tutorship of Rev. Caleb Stetson, to prepare him for admission to Harvard University. He entered the Freshman class, at Harvard, in February, 1827, and was graduated there in the year 1830. Among his classmates was Charles Sumner, between whom and Mr. Tower a very close friendship grew up, which continued through many years, and lasted until Mr. Sumner's death.*

After graduation, Mr. Tower began, in 1831, the study of the law, in the office of Hon. Harmanus Bleecker, in Albany, New York. The death of his father occurring in the next year, his family interests recalled him to Waterville, Oneida County, New York, the home of his family, where he continued his studies. He went later to New York City, and finished his study of the law in the office of Messrs. John L. and James L. Graham. He was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at Utica, in October, 1836. He began the profession, in New York City, in the office of Messrs. Graham and Sanford, continued it later in Waterville, and was engaged at the latter place, for some years, in manufacturing and commercial pursuits. Returning, however, to his practice, he won a foremost place at the bar of Oneida County.

Some legal questions that arose in connection with his practice took him to Pennsylvania, in 1846, for the examination of the title to large bodies of mineral land, lying chiefly in the County of Schuylkill. Resulting from this, Mr. Tower married Amelia Malvina Bartle, the daughter of Lambert B. Bartle and Sarah (Herring) Bartle, his wife, at Orwigsburg, on the 14th day of

* See Peirce's Life of Sumner, passim.

June, 1847, by whom he had one son and six daughters; and his legal interests induced him to take up his residence in Pennsylvania, which he did, in the spring of 1848, at Orwigsburg, at that time the county-seat of Schuylkill County, where he lived until 1850, when, upon the removal of the county-seat to Pottsville, he also moved his residence to that place. He lived in Pottsville from 1850 to 1875.

Mr. Tower's career at the bar in Pennsylvania brought him in contact with some of the most difficult and intricate questions of law, more especially upon the subject of titles to lands. The great coal-fields of the State had become the subject of widespread litigation, which led to the trial of cases that frequently involved estates of large value, and the conduct of which called into action the best legal talent of the day. Mr. Tower's life during this period of more than twenty-five years was exceedingly active and laborious. It was his custom to prepare his cases for trial, not only with a wonderful nicety of detail, so that in coming before the court he was prepared to meet the most exacting inquiry, but also to go out upon the lands themselves, which often lay in a mountainous country, almost inaccessible by reason of thick forest and heavy undergrowth, and to run the lines and establish the monuments himself, in company with his engineers.

His excellent training in early life, his patient labor and untiring industry, as well as his good judgment in questions of law, and his able treatment of them, won for him a standing at the bar among the foremost lawyers in Pennsylvania. While his devotion to the interests of his clients, and his sterling integrity as a man, brought him a very wide practice, his opinion upon questions of title was esteemed so highly that it is not unusual, even now, to hear him quoted in open court as authority.

Mr. Tower was the leading counsel in the famous trials that arose out of questions relating to the Munson and Williams estate, in Schuylkill County, comprising a large body of coal lands, the litigation in regard to which he carried along for more than twenty-five years. He mastered it, and perfected the title to these lands, which are now the property of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company; and his footsteps may be traced through many other great legal battles in different counties of Pennsylvania.

At the breaking out of the war of the Rebellion, Mr. Tower's loyalty to the Union was instant and decisive. Although he was fifty-two years of age, and long accustomed to the sedentary habits of his profession, he determined to take the field. He enlisted a body of two hundred and seventy men, within one week, at Pottsville, and proceeded with them to Harrisburg, where they were mustered into the service of the United States on the 21st day of April, 1861. They were divided into two whole companies and part of a third, and attached to the Sixth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers, in the three months' campaign. Mr. Tower having asked to be made captain, received his commission at the time of their entering the service and commanded, throughout its term, one of his companies,—Company H, Sixth Regiment. He was under the command of General Robert Patterson, and moved into Virginia by way of Chambersburg and Hagerstown, crossing the Potomac River at Williamsport, June 21, 1861, and taking part in the action at Falling Waters, very early in the war. Mr. Tower provided uniforms for his whole company at his own expense. He was mustered out of service with his men, at the end of their term of service, at Harrisburg, on the 26th of July, 1861, whence he returned to his family. Afterwards he paid a bounty of five dollars a man to a full company, recruited for three years by Captain Henry Pleasants (his second lieutenant in the three months' campaign; later, brigadier-general); this was Company C, Forty-eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, which performed much honorable service and became distinguished in the war.

On the 15th of August, 1861, Mr. Tower's men, who had served under him in the campaign, marched to his residence in Pottsville and presented him with an exceedingly handsome sword, bearing this inscription:

> Presented by the Tower Guards, of Pottsville, Pa.,
> To Capt. CHARLEMAGNE TOWER,
> As a token of their respect for him as a man and soldier, and of their esteem for him as a friend.
> August 10, 1861.

Mr. Tower was appointed United States Provost Marshal for the Tenth Congressional District of Pennsylvania, on the 18th of April, 1863, which commission he held until his resignation on the 1st of May, 1864, during a period of great national anxiety and many difficulties that at this time grew out of the carrying on of the war. His administration was soldierly, vigorous, and consistent, and won for him high distinction at Washington.

Mr. Tower continued in the practice of his profession, after his return from the war, until 1875, when he retired from activity at the bar, and in the fall of that year moved to Philadelphia, in order to devote himself to his private interests, in various industries and enterprises, which had grown to be very large. During his residence in Pennsylvania he had become owner of large bodies of coal land, and was director in several corporations, in which he was a party in interest. He was part owner in the well-known Coxe and Tower lands, on the Green Mountains in Schuylkill County. He was one of the original proprietors of the "Honey Brook Coal Company," and for many years one of its managers, and he took an active part, in conjunction with Mr. Charles Parrish and Mr. John Taylor Johnston, in transforming that successful enterprise into the "Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company." He was also actively interested in the construction and management of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and a member of its Board of Directors for several years. The assistance given by him to this road, by both personal attention to its affairs and financial support, frequently, when it became necessary, were of very great value to the company; and Mr. Tower may fairly be said to have contributed largely to its ultimate success. His judgment and foresight in business affairs placed him among the few men who never lost confidence in the value of this road, or in the great future development of the country through which it has been built.

The greatest and the most successful undertaking, perhaps, of Mr. Tower's long business career was his development of the iron resources of Minnesota, now well known to the world as the Vermilion Range. The presence of large deposits of iron ore in that country having been brought to his attention about the year 1875, he made a thorough investigation of their quantity and value by sending out several expeditions to explore them and report to him; the result of which having proved extremely favorable, he concluded to proceed with their actual development. The enterprise was a daring one. These ore bodies lay in St. Louis County, Minnesota, some ninety miles north-east from Duluth and about seventy miles in a direct line north from the north shore of Lake Superior. The country was densely wooded, was traversed by many small streams and broken by long stretches of swamp that in the summer season were almost impassable. Provisions, as well as materials and supplies, could only be transported in midwinter, laboriously, over the frozen ground and on the snow, frequently at a temperature of forty degrees Fahrenheit below zero, and in the summer carried upon the backs of men, or over a circuitous route by Indians in canoes. The opening and working of the iron mines at this great distance from the outskirts of civilization implied a formidable expenditure; but this was far surpassed by the necessity of constructing a railroad seventy miles long to the nearest water communication, the shore of Lake Superior, and equipping it, in order to transport the product of the mines to market, and the construction of sufficient dock and harbor facilities for vessels to receive it at the water's edge. Many experienced business men, consulted in regard to the enterprise, drew back from an undertaking fraught with so many and so great dangers. But Mr. Tower's courage was supported by his judgment derived from careful and systematic investigation, and he determined, at the age of seventy-three, to carry out his purpose single-handed. After having acquired title to the lands which contained the ore deposits, and also to a body of land lying upon Lake Superior, known then as Burlington Bay and Agate Bay, which he afterwards called Two Harbors, he formed in 1883 two companies, the "Minnesota Iron Company" and the "Duluth and Iron Range Railroad Company," the former of which owned the latter. He built the railroad from the mines at Lake Vermilion to Two Harbors, on Lake Superior, seventy miles; erected large docks, round-houses, machine-shops and saw-mills, and provided equipment for the transportation of the ore; besides carrying along the development of the mines in order that their product might be ready for shipment at the completion of the railroad. The iron ore lay in veins, tilted into a position almost vertical, extending for more than a mile in a north-easterly and south-westerly direction, and varying in thickness from forty to one hundred and fifty feet. The ore was a hard specular hematite, yielding by analysis sixty-eight per cent. of metallic iron and from thirty-thousandths to fifty-thousandths of phosphorus, free from sulphur and all refractory substance.

Mr. Tower carried along this enterprise with vigor and determination until August, 1884, when the railroad was completed and put into operation, and the first shipments of ore were made from Two Harbors to Cleveland. These shipments met with great favor after having been largely distributed among the iron and steel manufacturers of Illinois, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, and almost from its departure, Mr. Tower's enterprise was proved to be successful. The country opened very rapidly, and soon after a considerable town, called Tower, grew up on the shore of Lake Vermilion, and another at Two Harbors; whilst along the line of the railroad, lumbering interests, the quarrying of granite, and various industries sprang up with the increase of population. In 1886 the railroad line was constructed along the shore of Lake Superior, twenty-seven miles, to Duluth. The annual shipments of ore from the mines at Tower, which in 1884, at the opening of the railroad, were sixty-eight thousand tons, increased in 1885 to two hundred and twenty-five thousand tons, in 1886 to three hundred thousand tons, and in 1887 to four hundred thousand tons. This industry, planted by the energy and courage of a single man in a remote and difficult country, placed the State of Minnesota, hitherto unknown as a mineral-producing district, in the space of four years among the foremost iron markets of the United States, employed fifteen hundred men in its mines, and gave support, directly and indirectly, to more than five thousand people. It is not too much to say that this was one of the most remarkable developments ever made in the United States. Its value to Minnesota, and indeed to the whole country of the North-west, in the benefits that are likely to be derived from it, are almost incalculable. Mr. Tower in it erected a proud monument to himself as a man and a benefactor of his fellow-man that will endure and grow greater as time goes on.

In the year 1887 it was found that valuable deposits of iron ore existed throughout a long stretch of country lying to the east and north-east of the Minnesota Iron Company's property at Tower. These were explored after the opening of the railroad and they had been acquired by various individual owners and companies, who were ready to open new mines upon the extension to them of the railroad by which they might reach a market with their product. Mr. Tower concluded that, having carried out successfully his own undertaking, he did not wish singly to build the road to an unlimited extent in order to supply the demands that naturally arose as the country was more fully explored; neither did he wish to separate his railroad from the mines at Tower by transferring its ownership from the Minnesota Iron Company. He therefore concluded to make a combination with a syndicate formed in New York and Chicago, which already had large interests to the east of him.

These gentlemen bought from him his entire property in May, 1887, which he then transferred to them, retaining, however, an interest considerably smaller than his former holding, in the new organization which they formed, called "The Minnesota Mining and Railroad Syndicate." This arrangement was highly advantageous in a financial sense to Mr. Tower, who now had the gratification of having proved the wisdom of his foresight and of having seen his great undertaking carried through to an eminently successful issue, and in a very short time. He retained the Presidency of the Minnesota Iron Company, at the request of the syndicate, until October, 1887, when he resigned his office. Whereupon the Board of Directors, composed of the new owners, passed the following resolution, which they had handsomely engrossed and sent to him.

Resolved, That in thus severing, at his request, the active connection of Mr. Tower with the Company, we desire to place upon the permanent records of the organization our high appreciation of the great service he has performed in developing and rendering successful the enterprise. Mr. Tower came to its support in its infancy, and has been, from the beginning, its promoter and ruling spirit, giving to it always, unselfishly, the benefit of his ripe judgment and business experience, as well as unlimited aid from his own financial resources. During all the years of his connection with it, including years of general financial distress and anxiety, he has never faltered, and the full measure of prosperity which the Company now enjoys is largely due to his personal efforts, and is a sufficient tribute at once to his business capacity and his patient courage. We exceedingly regret that Mr. Tower feels compelled to retire from the service of the Company, but beg to assure him that he carries with him the gratitude and best wishes of the Board and of all interested in the property.

Mr. Tower was a man of cultivated tastes, a lover of books, particularly of those relating to the history of America. He was one of the first to recognize the importance of the comparative study of American colonial law. His unrivalled collection on this subject was begun nearly forty years ago, and was latterly supplemented with many rare and costly works belonging to the general field of Americana. He was a member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard University from 1884 until his death. He died at his summer residence in Waterville, Oneida County, New York, on the 24th of July, 1889, in the eighty-first year of his age.

Mr. Tower's life was one of integrity, patient labor, and of great good to others with whom he has lived. His influence extended very widely throughout the United States. As a citizen, in peace and in war, and as a professional man, in business and in private life, his career made him one of the remarkable men of his country and of his time.

PRESENTATION PROCEEDINGS.

LETTER OF

PRESENTATION AND PROCEEDINGS.

AFTER the death of Mr. Tower his library passed, under his will, to his widow, who, after careful consideration, decided she could best carry out his wishes in regard to its disposition by presenting that portion of it which comprised the collection of Laws and Americana to the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, where it would form not only an appropriate memorial of her husband, but would also fulfil the object for which he had gathered it,—benefit and enlighten the student of American history. This she did in the following letter addressed to the President of the Society:

1525 SPRUCE STREET, PHILADELPHIA,
4 March, 1890.

BRINTON COXE, ESQ.,

President of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania:

SIR,—I hereby present, through you, to the Historical Society of Pennsylvania the collection of books made during his lifetime by my husband, Charlemagne Tower, a list of which I send you with this letter. There are, as you see, some two hundred volumes, composed largely of original copies of the printed provincial laws of the present States of the Union and of other early works relating to the settling and development of America. Many of them are exceedingly rare and valuable. I desire and request that the Historical Society shall always keep these books together in one collection, to be known as "The Charlemagne Tower Collection," in order that they may serve as a memorial to him and to the interest that he felt in the Historical Society and its work. In giving these books to the Society, I believe I am doing what my husband would wish to have done if he were now living.

It gives me great pleasure, in making this presentation, to do so through you who for many years were among those of Mr. Tower's friends for whom he had the highest consideration and respect.

I am, sir,
Very truly yours,
AMELIA MALVINA TOWER.

To this Mr. Coxe replied:

AIKEN, SOUTH CAROLINA,
March 6, 1890.

MADAM,—Your letter of March 4, addressed to me as President of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, has been received at the Society. In accordance with my instructions and by my authority, Mr. F. D. Stone, our librarian, has already answered it preliminarily, and I now myself write, without delay, in answer. Before leaving Philadelphia I had an opportunity of examining the precious library of books relating to American history and law, which will be henceforth known as "The Charlemagne Tower Collection." Your gift, madam, is a munificent one, indeed, and one which our Society accepts with profound gratitude. It will be a noble monument to the memory of Mr. Tower. That such a monument should be confided to our care will always be a source of great pride to us. The security and proper use of the rare, precious, and useful books composing this unrivalled collection will always be the object of our assiduous attention. The trusts and duties which you impose upon us in your letter will always be scrupulously observed and performed.

The concluding paragraph of your letter touches me greatly. The intimacy between the families of Mr. Tower and of my father is now one of long standing. It is, I assure you, very highly valued on our part. The feelings which Mr. Tower entertained towards me are a very great honor. I am very grateful to you for speaking of them to me in your letter.

I am, madam, with great respect,
Faithfully yours,
BRINTON COXE,
President of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

To Mrs. Charlemagne Tower,
1525 Spruce Street,
Philadelphia.

Mr. Coxe immediately notified the Society of Mrs. Tower's gift in the following letter:

AIKEN, SOUTH CAROLINA,
6th March, 1890.

To WILLIAM BROOKE RAWLE, ESQ.,
Secretary of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

SIR,—I write you officially, as President of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, upon an important event, of which I request you to inform the Society at the earliest opportunity. You are aware of the great value of the rare volumes comprising the unrivalled collection of Americana, made by the late Charlemagne Tower, and of its double importance from the point of view of the historian and lawyer. This precious collection has been presented to our Society by Mrs. Tower, as a monument to the memory of Mr. Tower. It is, therefore, Mrs. Tower's wish that the Society shall always preserve the volumes of her gift in one collection, to be known as "The Charlemagne Tower Collection." An exhaustive report upon the invaluable contents of the collection cannot be made at once, for it is a work requiring skill, time, and labor. An elaborate catalogue made by an expert bibliographer will itself be a work of great value, especially to students at a distance. The mere inspection of the preliminary catalogue is of the highest interest. It shows that the volumes of the collection are naturally divided into two classes,—namely, those which relate to the history of the laws of the several colonies and States, and those which relate to American history in general. The books of the former class place our Society at the head of the depositories of first editions of the laws of the different colonies. These rare works are, however, something more than first editions. They are the original promulgations of the laws of the several colonies. There is one portion of this class which our members will contemplate with peculiar satisfaction and pride. It is the precious and wonderful series of the original promulgations of the printed laws of Pennsylvania. The second division of the collection is that relating to American history in general. At this distance from you it is impossible for me to attempt to do justice to its treasures. I must leave that pleasing task to others more competent.

Mrs. Tower has made this donation to the Society in a letter she has done me the honor of addressing to me. In my answer I have expressed to her the deep appreciation which our members feel of the value and utility of her munificent gift. I have assured her that we will always execute the duties and trusts imposed upon us by the possession of this noble monument to the memory of Mr. Tower.

In conclusion, sir, I move you to take early action to afford the Society an opportunity of expressing its sentiments upon coming into possession of "The Charlemagne Tower Collection."

Respectfully yours,

BRINTON COXE,
President.

The first and last of these letters having been laid before the Council at a special meeting on the 8th of March, 1890, on motion of Mr. Baker it was Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to address a letter to Mrs. Charlemagne Tower expressing the thanks of the Council for her munificent gift.

Resolved, That Mrs. Tower be made an honorary life member of the Society, in recognition of the great benefit she has conferred upon it.

The letter sent in conformity with the resolution was as follows:

THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF PENNSYLVANIA,
1300 LOCUST STREET,
PHILADELPHIA, March 11, 1890.

MRS. CHARLEMAGNE TOWER:

DEAR MADAM,—I have the honor to inform you that your munificent gift to the Historical Society of Pennsylvania of the unique collection of colonial laws and other books relating to American history from the library of the late Mr. Tower was made the subject of a special meeting of the Council of the Society on the 8th instant, when your letter to Mr. Brinton Coxe, the President of the Society, was read, and his acceptance of your present was communicated. It was unanimously resolved that the Secretary be instructed to convey to you the most grateful acknowledgments of the Council for your extraordinary gift, and to assure you of the inestimable value of it to the members of the Society and all students of history in our city, and to express their eminent satisfaction at having been selected as the guardians of so great a treasure and so appropriate a memorial to the late possessor of it.

At a stated meeting of the Historical Society itself, held last evening, the 10th instant, announcement was made of your invaluable gift, and the action of the Council was approved in terms denoting the highest appreciation of your priceless present.

I have the honor to be
Respectfully yours,
GREGORY B. KEEN,
Corresponding Secretary and Secretary of the Council of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

The letters, together with the following description of the collection, were read to the Society at a stated meeting, held March 10, 1890.

This collection, one of the most important ever formed in this city, and in its special line unequalled in the world, consists entirely of books whose great rarity renders them precious as well for their historical importance as for their extreme costliness.

The special object which Mr. Tower had in view was the collecting of material for the comparative study of our colonial laws, but the works on the early history of this country, which were at first acquired only as illustrative and supplemental to the series of laws, are so numerous and valuable as to form a distinct collection of great importance.

The collection of colonial laws, with a number of volumes which the Society can add to it, embraces the first extant edition issued by each of the twelve colonies which formed the United States, except Rhode Island, New Jersey, and Maryland, the first edition of the laws of Vermont, as well as those of the British and Danish West Indies. In nearly every case the first edition is supplemented not only by all or almost all of the subsequent revisions issued prior to 1800, but, with the exception of North Carolina and Georgia, by those rarest of rare books, the original session laws. The number of titles of the various issues of the laws of each of the colonies is about: Barbados, 2; Bermuda, 1; Caribbee Islands, 3; Connecticut, 96; Danish Colonies, 1; Delaware, 7; Georgia, 3; Jamaica, 5; Maryland, 6; Massachusetts, 407; Montserrat, 1; Nevis, 1; New England, 2; New Hampshire, 6; New Jersey, 25; New York, 56; New York City, 4; North Carolina, 2; Nova Scotia, 2; Pennsylvania, 151; Quebec, 7; Rhode Island, 74; St. Christopher, 2; South Carolina, 5; Vermont, 2; and Virginia, 39.

The set of Pennsylvania laws is not only unequalled, but a junction of all the other known collections would not produce one as complete. The series of Massachusetts laws had as a nucleus the collection of Dr. George H. Moore, of New York, which has been styled by the editor of the reprint of the revision of 1672 the finest private collection in existence, and to it Mr. Tower was fortunately able to make important additions, so that it is now the finest and most complete set in any one place. Beginning with the earliest revision known to be extant,—that printed at Cambridge in 1660,—the collection of revisions is complete down to 1788. The session laws begin in 1673 and run, with gaps of varying length, to 1714, from which period to the Revolution they are absolutely complete. The temporary laws lack only about ten pages of the sessional issues of being equally perfect, and the series of tax laws from 1699 to 1800 is probably the best in existence. The series of New Hampshire laws begins with the only known copy of the first issued,—a thin volume printed in Boston in 1699,—which is followed by the only two colonial revisions issued and several session laws. Of Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, and Maryland but one revision is lacking of each colony, while of session laws the Connecticut and New York series are very good, New Jersey is fairly represented, and the Rhode Island series, nearly complete from 1757 to 1800, is very fine. The edition of the laws of New York, printed in 1789, is an especially noteworthy book, from its historical associations and as a very remarkable specimen of eighteenth-century American binding. It is the copy specially bound for presentation to General Washington, whose autograph and book-plate appear in each volume. The copy of the first edition is an exceptionally fine one. It is a volume of great rarity, but six others being known, and the esteem in which it is held may be judged of from the fact that the three copies which have changed hands within the last ten years have sold for $1450, $1600, and $1750 respectively. The laws and ordinances of the city of New York are also very rare books, the original editions having been very limited. This collection contains four of the six editions known to be extant. All the Delaware revisions are in the collection, as well as a number of session laws. The Virginia series is very fine, and the first edition, printed in London in 1662, with its contemporaneous manuscript connection to 1684, which differs from the accepted text, is one of many highly-important volumes contained in this collection.

The whole collection has been sumptuously bound on a uniform plan by the Bradstreet Company, of New York. The two great series of Pennsylvania and Massachusetts laws and the first edition of each of the colonies have been bound in full-crushed Levant morocco; the exterior style is Jansenist, while the inside panel has been tooled to a delicate Grolier pattern, in the centre of which is a graceful symbolical design surrounded by an appropriate legend. The laws of each colony have been bound in one special color, selected as far as possible for its appropriateness; the inside panel has been varied from red to blue as best contrasted with the exterior, and a rich orange-colored watered silk with a handsomely-tooled border has been used throughout for the fly-leaves. The other volumes have been bound in half-crushed Levant with cloth sides, on which has been impressed the central design of the panel of the full-bound volumes.

Among the miscellaneous Americana there are the earliest general histories of the original colonies, such as Neal's "New England;" Belknap's "New Hampshire;" Hutchinson's "Massachusetts;" Peters's "Connecticut;" Smith's "New Jersey;" Proud's "Pennsylvania;" Beverley's Stith's and Burk's "Virginia;" Williamson's "North Carolina;" Archdale's and Glenn's "South Carolina;" Hewatt's "South Carolina and Georgia." There are also many volumes on America printed in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Of these may be mentioned Zeigler's "Syria, Schondia," etc., Strasburg, 1532; Robertus Moncechus's "Bellum Christianorum," Basle, 1533; Mauri's "Sphera Volgare," Venice, 1537; Tevet's "Historia dell' India America," Venice, 1561; Benzoni's "Historia de Mondo Nuovo," Venice, 1572; Monardes's "Historia de las Indias," Seville, 1574; the same in English, London, 1580; Acosta's "Historia de las Indias," Seville, 1590; the same in English, London, 1604; Linschoten's "Voyages," London, 1598; Peter Martyr's "West Indies," London, 1612; Whitbourne's "Newfoundland," 1622; Vaughan's "Golden Fleece," London, 1626; Smith's "Virginia," 1627; Stigliani's "Il Mondo Nuovo," Rome, 1628; [illegible]ite's "The Planter's Plea," London, 1630; Castell's "Petition concerning the Propagation of the Gospel among the Indians," London, 1641; Williams's "Virginia," London, 1650, and several other early tracts relating to Virginia. In regard to the Indians, we have Hubbard's "Narrative of the Troubles with the Indians," Boston, 1677, with the rare original map; Colden's "History of the Five Nations," London, 1750; "A Treaty held at Lancaster," Philadelphia: B. Franklin, 1744; "Several Conferences between the Quakers and the Six Nations," Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 1756; "The Mohawk Prayer-Book," London, 1787; Doddridge's "Indian Wars," Wellsburg, Va., 1824, and a very fine series of the Eliot Indian tracts.

Beginning with the first of these quaintly-worded titles, we have: "New England's First Fruits, in respect of the Conversion of some, Conviction of Divers, and Preparation of Sundry of the Indians," 1643; "The Day Breaking, if not the Sunrising of the Gospel with the Indians," 1647; "The Clear Sunshine of the Gospel breaking forth upon the Indians," 1648; "The Glorious Progress of the Gospel among the Indians," 1649; "The Light appearing more and more towards the Perfect Day," 1651; "Strength out of Weakness," 1652, in all its three variations; "Tears of Repentence," 1653; and "A Late and Further Manifestation of the Progress of the Gospel among the Indians," 1653.

Vice-President Charles J. Stillé, LL.D., moved that the action of the Council in reference to the munificent gift of Mrs. Tower be ratified and confirmed by the Society, and in doing so spoke of the great value of the books which Mrs. Tower had kindly presented.

They were not valuable simply because they were rare, and therefore costly, or as magnificent specimens of the bookbinder's art. All this they undoubtedly were, and their rarity and beauty were to be considered as evidences of the value attached to them by Mr. Tower. They had been to him doubtless as the apple of his eye, and we should feel honored that Mrs. Tower had made us the depository of his treasure. But after all the books are priceless to us because of their historical use and value. No one who has studied American history or any other history fails to see the importance of going to the original source for information, for he can be certain of nothing unless such a source is open to him. We have now what must always be a desideratum in the study of our colonial history,—a series of books containing by authority the original statutes. May they long enlighten the student here, and while he works among them his heart will be filled with thankfulness that such persons as Mr. and Mrs. Tower have been raised up to help them.

The resolution of Dr. Stillé was thereupon unanimously adopted.

Collation: Title of Charter, 1 leaf; Charter, pp. 6; Table, &c., pp. (2); Title to Acts, 1 leaf; text, pp. 256. The title to the Charter reads: THE | CHARTER | GRANTED BY | HIS MAJESTY | KING CHARLES II. | TO THE | GOVERNOUR & COMPANY | OF THE | ENGLISH COLONY | OF | CONNECTICUT | IN | NEW-ENGLAND | IN | AMERICA. | New-London | Printed and Sold by Timothy Green, Printer to the | Governour, and Company of the above said Colony. | 1750. |

Collation as in the preceding, except that the text extends to page 268. The differences between this—the second—and the first impression of the revision of 1750 are, with the exception of index and the number of pages, minutely typographical. The word America on both of its title pages is in larger type. The sheet mark between the "rules" on the title page of the Charter is not found in this impression, and the setting up of the side-notes differs materially throughout. The index is arranged differently and includes page 268. The last page of the first issue terminates with a line of printer's blocks, and without a catchword, the former not appearing in the second issue, in which "Acts" appears as a catchword. In the imprint of both titles there is a comma after the word Governour.

Ordinance for Establishing the Place for Keeping and Holding the Courts of Judicature for the County of Hunterdon," &c., passed March 28, 1719. Usually found with the collection of 1717, and paged in continuation of it, the error in the collection of 1717 being corrected by the duplication of two pages in the next session.

This handsome volume, generally known as Leaming and Spicer's Laws, was prepared under the authority of an act of Assembly passed in 1752, and is the largest work issued from the press of Wm. Bradford. Subscribers' names were first solicited in February, 1755, the compilers having spent nearly two years in its preparation. Three years more were consumed in printing, and it was not until May, 1758, that it was ready for delivery. Up to that time 170 copies had been subscribed for, and the editors say, in the Pennsylvania Journal, May 11, 1758, "a number of copies yet remain not subscribed for," and "any person may be supplied" until "the 17th of July next, after which we will not further extend the sale." It was reprinted about 1880.
